

Coffee morning raises £1,000

A MACMILLAN Coffee Morning in Drybrook raised more than £1,080.

The event, part of the charity's 'World's Biggest Coffee Morning', was hosted by Hale & Co (Drybrook) Ltd.

Visitors snapped up the cakes and cookies created by in-house demonstrator Donna Hughes, with staff and their spouses also donating cakes to raise money.

The company had teamed up with built-in appliance brand Neff, which provided free cups of coffee in return for a donation to this good cause.

A grand raffle was also held with all the proceeds going to the charity.

Raffle organiser Sue Arnold said: "We are really pleased with the total. Many local companies generously provided over 100 prizes which is just fantastic."

Operations manager Jake Hale said: "We were delighted to be able to support this national charity."

"Macmillan Cancer Support reaches and improves the lives of people living with cancer by providing practical, medical and financial support for better cancer care."
